Travel and Tourism-John Ward 1997 Published in association with the Travel and Tourism Programme (the organisation who developed the syllabus), this text is a comprehensive and stimulating companion for students of GCSE Travel and Tourism. The book takes a "behind the scenes" look at the travel and tourism industry and follows a case-study approach. The book is divided into four sections which follow the new syllabus exactly: tourist destinations; leisure facilities; the social, economic and environmental impact of tourism; and employment in the tourism industry. By adopting this approach students are given a better understanding of how the industry operates. The many activities in the book are appropriate both for GCSE and GNVQ students. Their variety is intended to enable the development both of knowledge about travel and tourism and the skills which are considered essential for the industry's future workforce.

Teaching Travel And Tourism 14+-Huggett, Cliff 2010-10-01 Teaching Travel and Tourism 14+ has been written in response to a perceived need in initial teacher training to address the pedagogy of vocational programmes in the field as a vocational subject. It, therefore, focuses on theoretical approaches to teaching, learning and assessment and how they can inform the way in which we plan and deliver programmes of Travel and Tourism studies. It examines how we teach programmes related to preparation for working in the industry, programmes such as the National Diplomas, specific professional qualifications and, of course, the new 14-19 Diplomas. It is intended to inform and stimulate to further study all likely to be involved in the development and delivery of such programmes. This could include, those engaged in initial teacher training whether experienced practitioners or post-graduate students; subject mentors now required to support new teachers; experienced teachers unfamiliar with the subject who may be required to teach on these programmes and also administrators needing to familiarise themselves with the nature, content and delivery of the subject as an innovation to the curriculum. Therefore, although initially it examines the nature of the industry and raises discussion of issues pertinent to the delivery of related vocational programmes, it is essentially a useful resource book, with a wealth of information about the exciting curriculum opportunities that the subject presents. Through interactive exercises, case studies and exemplar resources it provides the reader with a foundation of usable activities to develop a variety of teaching and learning strategies which will enhance their delivery of the Travel and Tourism curriculum.

Assessing 21st Century Skills-National Research Council 2011-09-16 The routine jobs of yesterday are being replaced by technology and/or shipped off-shore. In their place, job categories that require knowledge management, abstract reasoning, and personal services seem to be growing. The modern workplace requires workers to have broad cognitive and affective skills. Often referred to as "21st century skills," these skills include being able to solve complex problems, to think critically about tasks, to effectively communicate with people from a variety of different cultures and using a variety of different techniques, to work in collaboration with others, to adapt to rapidly changing environments and conditions for performing tasks, to effectively manage one's work, and to acquire new skills and information on one's own. The National Research Council (NRC) has convened two prior workshops on the topic of 21st century skills. The first, held in 2007, was designed to examine research on the skills required for the 21st century workplace and the extent to which they are meaningfully different from earlier eras and require corresponding changes in educational experiences. The second workshop, held in 2009, was designed to explore demand for these types of skills, consider intersections between science education reform goals and 21st century skills, examine models of high-quality science instruction that may develop the skills, and consider science teacher readiness for 21st century skills. The third workshop was intended to delve more deeply into the topic of assessment. The goal for this workshop was to capitalize on the prior efforts and explore strategies for assessing the five skills identified earlier. The Committee on the Assessment of 21st Century Skills was asked to organize a workshop that reviewed the assessments and related research for each of the five skills identified at the previous workshops, with special attention to recent developments in technology-enabled assessment of critical thinking and problem-solving skills. In designing the workshop, the committee collapsed the five skills into three broad clusters as shown below: Cognitive skills: nonroutine problem solving, critical thinking, systems thinking Interpersonal skills: complex communication, social skills, team-work, cultural sensitivity, dealing with diversity Intrapersonal skills: self-management, time management, self-development, self-regulation, adaptability, executive functioning Assessing 21st Century Skills provides an integrated summary of the presentations and discussions from both parts of the third workshop.

Aspects of Teaching Secondary Geography-Margaret Smith 2003-09-02 This book provides a practical illustration of the skills, knowledge and understanding required to teach in the secondary classroom. As well as discussing concepts and ideas, the book gives a critical examination of some of the key issues, and will encourage the reader to engage with the ideas and consider their views and beliefs. It is an invaluable resource for those who are learning to teach or for those teachers who wish to reflect on their teaching practice.

HR Beyond the Theory-Charles Goff-Deakins 2019-06-24 Whether you're a new HR professional, or aspiring to be one, this book will help you develop the practical skills to help you flourish in the workplace with confidence and competence. While other books can teach you the mechanics and theory of HR and its practices, HR Beyond the Theory shares tried-and-tested practical advice and guidance on the skills you'll need on a daily basis to help you develop your career as an HR professional. These skills saw the author, Charles Goff-Deakins, nab his first entry-level HR role without a degree or any HR qualifications, and go on to be a successful senior HR professional. This would not have been possible without the skills detailed in this book. In addition to practical advice on skill development and respective examples, this book also provides guidance on continuing your professional development as an HR professional, the different specialisms of HR from the perspective of those who work in them, how to approach the next steps in your career, and tips on how to get your first HR role if you're not already in one. Chapters include: * Before your first HR role * Customer (employee) service * Understanding your organisation * Public speaking * Understanding data * Planning * Business writing * Learning from mistakes * The Not-Glossary * Continuous professional development (CPD) * What next? * HR Specialisms interviews. While the book makes reference to UK bodies (e.g. the CIPD), readers from other countries will still find this just as useful and relevant.

IGCSE English as a Second Language Teacher's Book-Peter Lucantoni
